STOCKS IN LOCAL MARKET IMPROVE AT START, BUT FAIL TO HOLD GAINS Street Expresses Satisfaction Over President Wilson's Address—Lehigh Valley Sells at Lowest Point Since 1915

With the opening of the Philadelphia Stock Exchange this morning there was general improvement shown. This was true, both as far as the movements of prices were concerned and the number of stocks which appeared on the tape during the forenoon session. The betterment in the market was due to the President's speech to Congress last night. Everywhere in the Street the President's words were favorably commented on, and the opinion was freely expressed that there was nothing of the uncertainty left in our international relations to cause concern. When Congress adjourned in the afternoon without taking action on the war resolution, however, some hesitancy was shown in the Street, and this was responsible for a narrowing down in the trading and a reaction in prices.
